What you need to provide

You (the person submitting this form) will need to:

- provide a certified true copy of an identity document
- make a statutory declaration on page 7 of this form.

Your identity document can be your driver licence or the photo page from your passport.

A certified true copy is a photocopy that has been stamped or endorsed by an authorised person. This confirms that the copy is a true copy of the original document.

A statutory declaration is a written statement signed in front of an authorised person and declared to be true.

An authorised person must be:

- a Justice of the Peace (JP)
- a solicitor or notary public (you may have to pay for their services), or
- a Registrar or Deputy Registrar of the District Court or the High Court, or authorised staff in some government agencies.

You must present your current photo identification to the person authorised to take a statutory declaration when you sign the declaration in front of them. They can certify the photocopy of your photo identification at the same time.

Services a counsellor can offer

We recommend that you consult with a counsellor of your choice before submitting this form.

A counsellor can:

- help you to consider the implications of providing and accessing information
- support you if you contact a donor, or other donor conceived people who are related to the same donor, if a link is established
- answer questions about how others have approached the issue and what seems to work best.

Counselling may be able to be arranged through your fertility service provider, or with an independent counsellor.

Linking your information and donor information

Births, Deaths and Marriages will use the information on this form to establish a link to the details of the sperm, egg or embryo donor(s) that relate to you, and to any other donor-conceived person who is related to the same donor(s), where those people supply their details.

It is not compulsory to provide any of the information on this form. However, the more specific information that you provide, the more likely a link can be made with the details of a donor and any other donor-conceived people related to the same donor.

The most important piece of information to provide is any identifying number or symbol used by the fertility service provider, if known. We will confirm your identifying number or symbol with the fertility service provider, to ensure it is accurate.

It is important that you advise us of any changes to your information. This will ensure that:

- we can advise you if a link is established to a donor or related donor-conceived person
- accurate information about you can be provided to a donor or related donor-conceived person when they request it.

Restrictions on access to the information

The information on this form is collected and held by Births, Deaths and Marriages.

Access to the information will be provided in accordance with the Human Assisted Reproductive Technology Act 2004.

Fees apply to the provision of registered information, or for providing confirmation that any information is held by Births, Deaths and Marriages.

The following people can apply to access information held about you on the register:

- you, if you are aged 16 or 17 and have the approval of the Family Court, or you are aged 18 or older
- your guardians, if you are aged under 18
- a person who the Registrar-General of Births, Deaths and Marriages believes to be your donor
- a person who the Registrar-General believes to be a person who shares the same donor as you, if that person is aged 16 or 17 and has the approval of the Family Court or is aged 18 or older
- a guardian of a person who the Registrar-General believes to be a person who shares the same donor as you, if that person is aged under 18.

You can request that access to the information in this form be restricted in certain ways on page 6. Restrictions can be added, removed or changed at any time.
